The Polytechnic Institute Asks Two Hundred Thousand Dollars to Enlarge.

THE REDISTRICTING BILL UP

The Old Bill Reoffered in Both Houses-General Road Law Was Engrossed.

Both houses of the General Assembly had sessions of liberal length yesterday. but they were more notable for the number and importance of the bills offered than for those passed, Porhaps the most important action taken was that by the House in ordering to its engrossment the Edmondson general road bill, after numerous amend-ments had been made. Mr. Ryan offered substitute for one section exempting counties having a special road law from the operation of the bill, except that upon petition of fifty citizens such counties may by order of the court come under the operation of the general law. The engrossment of the bill insures its passake by the House to-day.

Mr. Jennings's bill, providing for the collection and compilation of Confederate records, as amended by the Senate, was taken up and the amendments concurred in. The bill now goes to the Governor, whose approval is a foregone conclu

The Senate discussed the Anderson bill proposing to appropriate $25,000 for a heat, light and power plant for the State, but finally passed it by until Saturday without action.

In both houses bills were offered, appropriating $200,000 for the enlargement of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, such enlargement being made necessary by the growth of the school.

by the growth of the school.

The old reapportionment bill, which died on the cslendar last year, was re-introduced in both houses yesterday. Its purpose, primarily, is to put Newport News and Norfolk in different con-gressional districts and incidentally to more nearly equalize the population em-braced in the First and Second Dis-braced in the First and contricts.

Air. Barksdale offered a bill in the Eenate readjusting the plan of remunerating treasurers for the collection of taxes, so as to make it greatest for the last third and least for the first third of the total levy.

The Senate.

The Senate was called to order at noon by Lieutenant-Governor Willard, and proceeded to work without the formality of an opening prayer. The session continued for more than two hours.

Objection was made by Mossrs, Byars and others to the consideration of the Anderson bill, appropriating $25,000 for a heat, light and motive power plant for the State buildings, pending action on the Capitol enlargement and renewation bill. The bill was on the calendar on the second reading. The objection being the Capitol enlargement and renewation bill. The bill was on the calendar on its second reading. The objection being made, the bill was passed by until Saturday, despite Senator Anderson's plea for action, on the ground that the Capitol enlargement bill had nothing to do with the heat and light plant bill. The date to which the bill was deferred, was chosen because of the fact that the Finance Committee will to-day take up and, it is expected, will make a report on the bill for the Capitol enlargement.

Senator Thomas, of Campbell, speaking to a question of privilege, expressed regret that he had been detained from attending the Senate by reason of illress at the time Senator Daniel was reelected for another term. He had hoped to be present and present the name of his distinguished fellow-countyman.
A number of new bills were offered and referred, a full list of their titles appearing below.

Mr. Mollwaine, of Petersburg, who had led Mr. Mason's forcos in his convass for the honor, gracefully nominated Mr. Watson. All the votes cast by the Senate were for him, as were those cast in the House, and with the basual formalities he was duly elected.

The Senate, after considerable debate, amended the Shands bill to release the titles of the Commonwealth of Virginia and of the cities and countles to real estate purchased at tax sales, and, after amendment, the bill was passed by The amendment is designed to safeguard the Commonwealth in the matter of the sale of land embraced in old lend grauts, on which squatters have settled. "Lexington, Va., Jan. 28, 1004.

"Dear Sir,—In answer to your kind request, I am sending you by registered mail an autograph of my father, a letter introducing John JR. Thompson, who was a close friend of James Barron Hope, to Miss Campbell, of Baltimore, Miss Campbell was a very lovely, cultivated gentlewoman, much beloved by the poet's mother and almost a sister to himself.

I am induced by my warm regard for the Valentines and our keen interest in the Valentine Museum, to add the Lee Memorial Poem. Naturally for the sake of the ode itself and because it was the last of his verse my honored father read to me and talked over with me "Memoriae Sacrum" means much to me. It should be borne in mind that my father was a busy editor, above all a lover of his fellow-men, whose time and kindness arswered many, many demands. Thus his was never the leisure which evolves faultiesq MSS. This, indeed, was but the rough working copy. The final, polished copy was never made because death claimed him. As it is I can but feel that it should be of value to Virginians and those who revere him whom his State so often honored.

WITH THEIR NEW GUNS.

Company C First to Drill With Magazine Rifles.

Magazine Rifles.

Last Monday night, Company C drilled with the new magazine thirty-calibre rifle, This is the first company in Richmond to drill with the new arm. Captain, Skipwith, inatrusted the men in the use and manipulation of the pieces and held an inspection.

The United States government has recently adopted this new model, which is an improvement upon the old Krasz Jorgensen, and in many respects a more effective weapon. It may be used as a single shot rifle, or, with the magazine, which holds five cartridges. Forty-two aimed shots in two minutes is the record as a single shot arm. The extreme range is 4,055 yards, At the distance of 1,000 yards the bullet will penetrate 11.44 inches of white pine. The bullet used is made of twenty-five parts of lead to one of tip, and so great is the velocity with which it passes through the rifling, that it is incased in a packet of cupronickel steel to prevent the bullet from being melted by the friction. The new bayonet, which is much more rapidly attached and detached than the old style, are a combination of bayonet and bowie knife, and is a terrible weapon.

Coptain Skipwith is much complimented upon his promptitude in beginning drill with the new arms, as they were only issued to him a few days ago. The company is being measured for the new regulation uniforms, which will be issued to them in about a week.

Company C has lately added a number of fine young men to its membership, and their drills are attended with great enthusiasm.

QUESTION OF LAW.

May Test a Point Raised in Reference to Sale of Game Birds. Secretary M. D. Hart, of the loranch of the League of Ameri Scoretary M. D. Hart, or the total branch of the League of American Sportsmen, is very energotic in seeing that the game laws are fully carried out and observed. He has called upon a number of proprietors of restaurants and notified them that they cannot serve game birds to their customers, no matter whither the birds were caught before the expiration of the law or not.

In some instances he found such birds on the bill of fare, and informed the proprietors that they could not serve them. There is a fine point of law in this, and it is guite likely that a test case may be brought up.

The restaurant men contend that they can serve birds that were caught before I restaurant men contend that they can serve birds that were caught before I restaurant men contend that they can serve birds that were caught before I reague does not believe the law allows them to do this and upon this point the test may be made.
